

Purple Passionflower

Description: native, perennial vine that climbs with tendrils; also known as May-pop; green, golfball-size fruits make a loud “pop” when stepped on; fruit is edible and tastes a bit like Guava

Family: Passifloraceae

Scientific name:

Passiflora incarnata

For more information about NATL plants, visit <http://natl.ifas.ufl.edu/plants.htm>