

American Pokeweed

Description: native perennial herb; small white flowers followed by purple berries that are poisonous; stems bright red when mature; cooked young shoots said to taste like asparagus

Family: Phytolaccaceae

Scientific name:

Phytolacca americana

For more information about NATL plants, visit <http://natl.ifas.ufl.edu/plants.htm>